Sessions

Session 1: Setting up the lesson suite

2 hours

In this session we will cover:

1. The Basics
  - 5 minute review of backward mapping
  - 5 minute review of instructional balance
  - Choosing the topic and planning the assessment
  - Developing the first lesson
  - Putting the technology in its proper place
2. Options for presenting the Level up lesson suite to the students
  - PowerPoint revisited
  - OneNote revisited
  - PDF portfolios
  - Going online: Wix, Moodle, Edmodo, Weebly
3. Fun with the concept of levelling up

Session 2: The first lesson and levelling up

2 hours

In this session we'll:

1. Develop the first lesson which revolves around the basic skills and knowledge of the topic. This often involves fact finding/ research and categorising information. (remembering and understanding)
2. Level up for the first time by increasing the cognitive challenge to applying and analysing information while giving options for simple to more complex types of ICT. Participants also briefly look at gamification options such as awarding badges and achieving challenges to move to the next level.

Session 3: Going high order

2 hours

In this session we investigate the use of peer and self evaluation throughout the process. Metacognition involves planning, resourcing and evaluation by the students and they can be reflecting on their work and progress during the entire lesson suite. We look at strategies and scaffolds to facilitate this process.

Our last activity is getting creative with the final assessment.

This is what the students have been working towards - a creative AND authentic final product which encapsulates the skills and knowledge of the topic. As well as looking at the task and the technology involved, we will also investigate ways for students to authentically present their final product.
